

Laura Million

As RCEDC's Business Development Manager, Laura Million and her team work with local municipalities to attract new businesses to Racine County and assist existing Racine County businesses with their expansion plans. Major projects have included facilitating expansions at Seda North America, Insinkerator, Merz North America, Fischer USA, and Norco Manufacturing. Laura and her team were actively involved in attracting and securing Foxconn and are now part of the team coordinating project implementation. Prior to joining RCEDC in 2010, Laura analyzed regional economic development policy at the Public Policy Forum in Milwaukee.

Laura serves on the United Way of Racine County Board and UW-Parkside's Continuing Education Advisory Board.

Laura received her undergraduate degree from Sweet Briar College in Economics and Government and her Masters in Regional Planning from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.
