BUSINESS AND EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND

Anthony joined Colliers Site Selection Services in 2019 as Senior Vice President after serving two decades in location consulting, site selection and real estate development for national firms. Colliers Site Selection Services is a national platform focused on locating and implementing distribution centers and manufacturing plants for industrial companies across the US.

Anthony's team brings one-of-a-kind expertise to industrial site selection through supply chain optimization, location analysis, labor evaluations, and operating cost analysis. The entire team is a trusted advisor throughout facility planning and implementation including real estate procurement, incentive negotiations, facility design and facility construction.

AREA OF EXPERTISE

Anthony has worked on behalf of Fortune 500 and national brands as project lead, consultant, and developer. He spent the last ten years as an executive with an Atlanta-based site selection and design-builder with active construction projects in 38 states. As Vice President of Marketing and Business Development, Anthony led the businesses' national marketing and business development strategy.

PROFESSIONAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

In his tenure, Anthony developed a reputation as a national thought leader, writer and public speaker - completing over 50 speaking engagements in the last three years.
