

Eric Swack is the Exertive Director of the Wind River Development Fund, a Native CDFI based on The Wind River Indian Reservation in Central Wyoming. Prior to joining WRDF, he worked as a program analyst and product manager for a large research consultancy in the energy industry. He has also worked in various capacities with a variety of start-up businesses and cooperatives, in addition to research and consulting roles for community development finance organizations. He holds an undergraduate degree is in American Studies from Wesleyan University, and earned his MBA at The University of Colorado, Boulder, with a focus on finance.